W. L. TRUITT RETURNS FROM PLEASANT AUTO TRIP OF 1765 MILES

W. L. Truitt, of 413 W. 9th street, Glendale, has just returned from an auto trip of 1765 miles. He arranged his trip ahead so that a complete loop was made, and the same road was not covered twice, and as he passed through many places of interest to all automobile owners, it will be instructive to hear what he says about the trip which he has just completed.

"We left Glendale on July 16 in our new Overland car, with my wife, my four children and myself in the party. We carried a complete camping outfit, which we had strapped on to the car, and when we left several people remarked that we looked like we were off for a trip —which was right, as we had everything in the line of camping equipment which we could possibly need. From Glendale we went straight up over the Ridge route to Bakersfield, passed through Exeter and Three Rivers and entered the Sequoia National Park. Right here I want to say that I believe we had the right idea before we started by bringing a complete camp outfit, as many a time we saw a pretty spot that was ideal for camping purposes, and right then and there we would stop and camp.

From there on we went to Fish Camp, which place was certainly named very appropriately, as we had fishing there which would delight the heart of any fisherman. It was no task at all to catch the limit, which is twenty fish, in a short time, but good as the fishing was, we couldn't stay as long as wo would have liked, so moved on our way again and started for Yosemite Valley. After passing through "Glacier Point" we arrived at this wonderful valley. I might say here that the roads around this section were not as good as in some others; but as we have an exceptionally easy riding car we did not mind that in the least. Besides this, the scenic effects are so good that the average motorist will not mind rough roads for a while—as the scenery more than offsets that objection. After this we drove along Tioga Pass— and were pleasantly surprised to find that at the spot where we camped along the Tioga road the fishing was even better than any we had anywhere else on the trip. Another thing which makes this section of the trip interesting is the fact that there is snow around, and the spot where we camped was only a short distance from an immense snow-bank. Of course at night it gets cold, but the daytime is perfect. We also stopped for fishing at Yosemite Creek, and Tuolumne Meadows, where fish were very plentiful.

To Mono Lake was our next objective point—and after that to Lake Tahoe. From Lake Tahoe we crossed the Sierras and travelled on in to Sacramento. We then travelled over that wonderful new concrete causeway, which I am told is the longest concrete causeway in the world. I meant to take note and see just what mileage it was, but I neglected to do so. It is a wonderful piece of work, and one that will be remembered for years to come by anyone making the drive over it. The Petrified Forest was our next point of interest, and after passing through Davis, we arrived at Calistoga and the Petrified Forest. Through Oakland, San Jose and Monterey we went till we reached Pismo Beach, where we camped. About two miles from the resort there is a place where large clams are very plentiful, and it is an easy matter to rake in a sackful in no time. The law allows you to take fifty clams, and as they are exceptionally large, that amount will last for a while. They are, without doubt, the finest clams I have ever tasted—and it was with regrets that we left Pismo Beach.

Our next stop was at Foster Park near Ventura, where we camped de luxe, as we were lucky enough to find a spot where a stove and many other things were at our disposal. Then we struck out for home and good old Glendale, where we arrived last Sunday.

We had a very pleasant six weeks' vacation, and we all enjoyed every minute of it, as everything went just the way we had planned it, and there wasn't a hitch of any kind, with anything, and since making that trip I think more than ever of my Overland car.

Mrs. S. B. Gonzales, 112 N. Louise, with her daughter Louise and son James, left Monday for Chicago, Indiana and New York, where they will visit relatives and friends until the holiday season.

WHERE PEARS ABOUND

J. A. FAIRCHILD TELLS OF PROGRESS IN ANTELOPE VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fairchild, of Fifth and Maryland, returned Wednesday, Aug. 30, after a sojourn of two months in Antelope valley. "We left Glendale July 6," said Mr. Fairchild, "and took the train to Palmdale, which is a beautiful spot among the mountains, standing at an elevation of 2650 feet. As the crow flies Palmdale is about forty miles from Glendale, but it is a journey of 100 miles by train.

"It is, of course, an interesting ride by train through Saugus and the Newhall country. Everything was looking fresh and flourishing. We stayed in Palmdale for about ten days and enjoyed very much examining the new developments in the valley. It is astonishing how rapidly that country has grown up. A few years ago it was mere desert; now it is full of ranches and pear and apple trees are growing in a state of high cultivation.

"We then went further up the mountains to Little Rock, which is a regular pear country. The variety grown is the useful and valuable Bartlett pear, which is always in great demand. The pear growers of the valley have a regular association, with warehouses in Los Angeles for cold storage. The pears are gathered before fully ripe. Placed in cold storage they ripen and are taken out as the market demands. The cultivation of the Bartlett pear is being extended every year and in the valley there is opportunity for the employment of thousands of people for gathering in the pear harvest. There are now several thousands of acres of pears in cultivation, and many young trees rapidly advancing to maturity.

"We stayed three weeks in that charming spot enjoying the fine mountain air and the fine spring water. I am sure there were more than thirty camps scattered through the woods. Campers were coming and going all the time. The mountain roads were alive with autos, especially on Sunday, when people came out to visit friends. Others would come out on Saturday and spend over Sunday.

"The mountain streams are full of fine trout and not a small number of visitors come there for the fishing. I saw many of them who had fine catches of those trout. The trout are of various kinds—Dolly Varden, Rainbow and the regular eastern brown trout.

"After our stay at Little Rock, we went up still farther to Big Rock. There is a fine camp there and good fishing. Between Little Rock and Big Rock the campers are to be found everywhere. We were living there on the famous Shumaker ranch, of which our friend, Robert Paulett, is foreman. That is one of the finest ranches in the mountains. The post office is known as Valyermo. The ranch has 200 acres of orchards. Near the ranch is the well known Point Comfort mine, out of which a great deal of gold has been taken.

"After two weeks spent in that stimulating atmosphere we visited the ranch of C. E. Holloway, another friend. This is about eight miles from Valyermo on the way back to Glendale. Mrs. Fairchild and I enjoyed every moment of the time we were away and returned home, glad to see Glendale and greatly benefited by the vacation."

AT THE LUTHERAN PICNIC

Eagle Rock park was thronged Monday, Sept. 4, with a large assemblage of Lutherans from all the surrounding district of Los Angeles. The occasion was the annual picnic of the Lutheran Brotherhood. Mr. A. Larson, the president, presided at the exercises and addresses. A basket lunch was enjoyed by all and the committee provided hot coffee and milk. Those present from Glendale were: The Rev. R. W. Mottern, Mrs. Mottern, Elizabeth Mottern, Dorsey Mottern, Harry Riker of Tropico, J. A. St. Clair, Mrs. J. A. St. Clair, Patricia St. Clair, R. E. Bryson and Mrs. Bryson, 343 S. Brand, Mr. G. E. Wellner, 325 Glendale avenue, Mrs. Connolly, 704 W. Broadway, Hearcel Schaeffer, Kenwood street, and Gale Riggs. Races and games were held after the speeches and prizes were awarded the fortunate competitors.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO ATTEND NEWS' BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

The Glendale Evening News will celebrate its third anniversary of existence as a daily paper on Thursday of this week. On that day an exceptionally large edition of the paper will be published containing many interesting news features and in this number it is expected the business interests of Glendale will be quite generally represented.

In the evening a band concert and general entertainment will be given on the space west of the Evening News office commencing at 7:30 o'clock. To this entertainment the public is invited. BRILLIANT HOUSE PARTY

One of the most enjoyable house parties of the year was given by Mrs. R. F. Cullen at her home, 220 North Maryland Ave., Glendale, in compliment to Mr. Bob Cullen and his coworkers of the Pacific Navigation company, which has been recently absorbed by the "Admiral Line." As many of them will probably direct their energies to other fields, the affair was in the nature of a farewell reception to those whose association has been close for many years and which will always remain a pleasant memory.

The pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. Cullen was beautifully and elaborately decorated under the supervision of Mr. Joseph Bellue and they were much admired by all. Music and dancing were indulged in by all, this being the principal diversion of the occasion. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening and all were unanimous in voicing their appreciation of the enjoyable time provided by their hostess.

The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Meherin, Capt. and Mrs. Robert Hill, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. George French, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Myton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bellue, Mr. and Mrs. George Herald, Misses L. J. Watkins, E. Sawyer, Evelyn Snow, Messrs. A. C. McCann, Henry Jacobsen, Harry A. Shortell, C. Bennett, William W. Hoyle, C. DEATH OF JOHN NORRIS JONES

John Norris Jones, son of Mrs. Fred Stelzer of 866 S. Brand, died Monday afternoon, September 4, at the age of 17 years. The deceased was born in Illinois December 21, 1898. Three months ago his mother brought him to California in the hope that the climate would benefit his health but the ravages of tuberculosis had done their wark and it was too late. The remains are at the Pulliam Undertaking parlors awaiting shipment tomorrow to his home in Illinois for burial. No services will be held here.

DEATH OF HARRY S. WALSH

Harry S. Walsh of 3460 Perlita avenue, Los Angeles, just over the line from Tropico, passed away at his home this morning at 8:30 at the age of 25 years. He was born in Los, Angeles and lived at his late home for eighteen months. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the chapel of the Pulliam Undertaking company and interment will be in Forest Lawn cemetery.

HURT IN EXPLOSION

While helping to make the explosion scene in the tenth episode of "The Girl From 'Frisco" Johnny Tone and Clarence Ball, two motion picture actors with the Kalem company, were quite painfully burned on their arms and faces, Monday. The scene that was being filmed was "The Reformation of Dog Hole," a mining camp scene. The incident was an explosion scene in a box car. The men were carefully attended and will soon be completely recovered.

FATAL ACCIDENT

MRS. CHAUNCEY BROWN OF GLENDALE KILLED—HUSBAND INJURED

An accident which turned a pleasant outing trip into a scene of death and disaster took place Saturday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, on the road to San Diego, when Mrs. Chauncey Brown of 816 N. Louise street, Glendale, was killed and her husband, Chauncey Brown, was seriously and possibly fatally injured. Mr. and Mrs. Brown had started in their auto for San Diego, where they intended to spend a few days. They had reached the neighborhood of San Juan Capistrano. The road at the particular point where the accident took place is exceedingly narrow.

Giving ample room for an auto that suddenly raced up behind them to pass Mr. Brown drew as close to the outside of the road as he dared, but the following auto passing at considerable speed struck the Browns' auto, overturned it and threw the occupants violently to the ground. On examination it was seen that the Browns were seriously injured and the auto which had caused the accident picked them up and conveyed them to San Juan Capistrano, where it was found that Mrs. Brown was dead.

Chauncey Brown was then conveyed to the hospital at Santa Ana, where he still lies in an unconscious and dangerous condition. Mrs. Brown's body was conveyed to Glendale by the Pulliam Undertaking company's ambulance. Funeral services will be held at Pulliam's chapel Thursday at 10 a. m. and the remains will be placed in a vault awaiting the outcome of Mr. Brown's injuries. His condition is causing his physicians grave anxiety and a consultation is being held this afternoon.

Mrs. Brown was 38 years of age. She and her husband came to California from Ithaca, N. Y., some time ago.

STINE BABY DROWNED

A most sad and unfortunate accident occurred Monday morning about ten o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stine, 1620 West Broadway, when their infant son, Richard Newton Stine, Jr., fell into an irrigating pond and was drowned. The little boy was 2 years, 8 months and 16 days old. He had been placed by his mother on the porch where he was shut in by a baby enclosure and also a fence and the mother thought herself free to leave him and attend to the wants of her two younger twin children, as there seemed no possibility of his getting out.

Shortly after having left the child on the porch Mrs. Stine went to look after him and found that he had managed to climb over the rail and get out of the yard. An alarm was given at once and a search made for the little fellow. Finally a Japanese who had been working near made the sad discovery that the baby had fallen into the irrigation pond. In order to reach this pond he had had to climb several steps. The little body was at the bottom of the pond and life was extinct. The police were summoned with the pulmotor but all efforts to resuscitate the child were in vain.

Funeral services will be held at the Pulliam Undertaking parlors Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

TRIP TO STURTEVANT'S

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Case, 105 Maryland, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Goss, 714 W. Fifth street; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ellis, 541 S. Kenwood and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Weaver, 233 S. Kenwood, spent Labor Day week-end at Sturtevant's camp. The camp is a beautiful spot eight miles beyond Sierra Madre, in the big Santa Anita canyon. Mr. Ellis and Mr. Goss climbed Mt. Wilson, while most of the party remained in camp. Tennis, croquet, quoits and a big campfire, about which 150 guests of the camp gathered for music and stories in the evening, added much to the pleasure of the Glendale party, although they claim that the best part of all was the pranks played on each other and the fun at the big housekeeping camp, where the whole party cooked and ate together.

TO JOIN COAST ARTILLERY

From present indications it is likely that the Glendale volunteers will be joined to an organization of Coast Artillery Federal reserves that is now being organized. This organization may be attached to the National Guard of California. The movement is under the direction of Maj. H. B. Wright.

STATE DEMANDS ON INDIVIDUALS

No government on the face of the earth is so far advanced as that of the United States. It is the last and the best fruit of civilization. It was founded on the principle of equal rights to all and on the securing to all of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That principle has traveled around the whole world and made its way into other nations. There is no limitation to its citizens in their desire to share in the government of the country. The most humbly born may aspire to the supreme post in the country.

As far as regards the administration of the country's supreme power when that is done in harmony with its purposes and its design, the proudest and the strongest must obey its mandates. Genius is allowed its fullest liberty in all branches of the government and the protection of this mighty power is thrown around those who are without natural gifts or weak. Money or position is not supposed to have any special recognition in this government. Energy is always recognized. Change and progress is everywhere.

When the framers of the constitution wrote its memorable clauses they wrote as things to which humanity has an inalienable right—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Life in their estimation came first. In this country men are supposed to have and do have the blessings of the guaranty that secures those blessings to them. From other lands men crowd at all times to enjoy the blessings promised them here.

In the eye of the constitution of the United States there is no special privilege or monopoly. There is no place where special privilege or monopoly masquerading under another form may with safety hold council against the rights, liberties and privileges of the people of the United States, except by the connivance or indifference of the people or the neglect or cowardice of their public servants.

Those who declare otherwise declare so in ignorance of the principles of the government under which they live, or because they have not the courage to assail the wrong in sheer incompetency and unworthiness, lay their faults on the government.

In the end, however, the whole country, big an affair as it is, rests on the shoulder of the individual citizen. This is the guarantee of its efficiency and of its strength. An enlightened public opinion is the sole protector and guarantee of the provisions of the constitution.

It is necessary that each citizen give some of his time and energy to the service of the country. The highest type of citizen is always ready to sacrifice time and thought and money to advance the welfare of the country. It is necessary that individual citizens devote their mind and their means to fostering the highest standard of health and intelligence throughout the nation. By means of a healthful nation and an intelligent nation the rights of the people can be safeguarded and the powers of the government exerted for the general welfare.

When these things are neglected the government will be a pretence and the republic will not exist in fact. Every citizen must recognize that he owes time, thought and effort to the country and the state and the government. The blame for the failure of the government and the praise due for its success rest in the end on the shoulders of the common people. The government and the people must always remain in touch.

WAR AND WOMEN'S RIGHTS

One thing which is to be of vast importance to the world will have been brought about by the war—the granting of the franchise to the women of the United Kingdom. Woman suffrage is already assured. It is strange to hear assurances on that point from men like Premier Asquith, who was not long ago a most bitter opponent of the suffrage for women and was issuing orders for the confinement of prominent women of the country in the jails and their forcible feeding by means of tubes.

There is an obtuseness about the English mind at times that is almost incomprehensible. It is almost as marvelous as is the ease with which they turn from one opinion to another. One day they could have been found beating and stoning the Salvation Army "lassies"; the next enthroning them as the equals of the saints. One day the British premier refuses to admit Mrs. Pankhurst, the leader of the suffragists, to an audience; the next he is praising her to the skies and admitting that she has won her cause.

Just the other day J. W. Gullant, the Scottish "whip" in the house of commons, an important official, who was speaking to a deputation of Scottish magistrates and trade union officials, on this point of admitting women in the franchise bill, said that inevitably women would get the vote. Along with this comes evidence that the women of the kingdom have won their right to vote. From all sides this voice is heard.

In the course of the war the women have come forward and done most valuable work for their country. The men of the army are ungrudgingly giving their services to their country and sacrificing their lives. So are the women. When the death toll taken of brave women who have faced death in the battle field with the hospitals and in other difficult and dangerous positions shall have been counted up it will be found that in proportion to the number of women employed they have laid down their lives as freely as the men.

It is not only on the battlefield that they have done valuable work. The success of the armies in the field have been due to the able and efficient work done by the women at home. Without the women it would not have been possible to have accomplished the wonderful work of creating an army of 5,000,000 men and also of supplying them with arms, ammunition and clothing. In that field the women have been supreme. Even the delicate art of turning a shell on a lathe so that it will fit the bore of any fieldpiece for which it may have been intended has been mastered by them. They have taken to the delicate work of manufacturing the 1700 more or less parts of the army rifle all so accurately gauged that rifles may be assembled indifferently out of the heaps of material turned out.

Woman has risen in esteem and honor since this war began and her influence in British politics may be expected to be marked before long. The evidence of the worth of woman in any field has become fairly manifest even to the most obtuse English Tory and the prize of suffrage which so many of them desire may be theirs whensoever they stretch forth their hand for it. In this way one of the last remnants of "taxation without representation" will disappear from the laws of England and the world may look to a vast era of achievement in social and economic fields after women have the vote in Britain.

PACKER THANKS FRIENDS

Glendale, California,
September 5, 1916.

Mr. A. T. Cowan,
Editor Glendale Evening News and Tri-City Progress,
Dear Sir:—

I desire to thank you and through you my many other friends throughout the Fifth Supervisoral District for the generous and loyal support extended in my behalf both before and at the August 29th primaries. Since election day I have received many congratulations and feel that I may reasonably expect and will appreciate the continuance of the efforts of my friends, which will result in my election on November 7th. The Monte Vista, San Fernando and Antelope Valleys, by reasons of their wonderful productiveness and possibilities should have a representative on the Board of Supervisors, and a united effort on the part of voters in these valleys will insure the election of one who is conversant with their needs. I am fully aware of the responsibilities of a supervisor, but feel that I am qualified to cope with them, and beg to reiterate that if elected I will devote my time to an honorable, economic, business administration of the county's affairs.

STEPHEN C. PACKER.

HIGH-SCHOOL DAIRY

Central High School at Duluth, Minnesota, offers a typical example of the new school method of "learning by doing." Two years ago an appropriation of $150 was obtained for the purchase of a creamery outfit suitable for the average farmer, to be used by the agricultural department of the school.

In the first year the schoolboys made a total of 2,891 pounds of butter in 170 churnings. A student creamery company was organized, each member paying two dollars for his stock, the money being placed in a bank to guarantee the credit of the organization. The money received from products is banked and monthly reports are made to the student directors of the company.

At the end of each school year the profits are turned over to the agricultural department and dividends are declared. Schoolboys thus obtain knowledge not only of methods of production but also of the most advantagecus way of disposing of the products. Thus conditions are met with similar to those encountered in the actual working of a dairy farm.

Every child should be measured by its own standard, trained to its own duty, and rewardsd by its just praise. It is the effort that deserves praise, not the success; nor is it a question for any student whether he is cleverer than others or duller, but whether he has done the best he could with the gifts he has.—Ruskin.

"MONSIEUR BEAUCAIRE"

Before an enthusiastic audience of more than 50 patients, guests and nurses assembled in the parlor of the Glendale Sanitarium, Mrs. Wilda Wilson Church last night gave a splendid reading of "Monsieur Beaucaire" by Booth Tarkington. This is the tabloid drama which Richard Mansfield liked so well to enact. With an accentuation as vivid and piquant as the dialogue itself, and with the running play of emotion that characterizes the part, the interpretation of this finished reader was such as to have delighted the Hoosier author himself had he been privileged to witness it. Certainly, Monsieur Beaucaire as rendered by Mrs. Church was warranted to rout Monsieur Dull Care.

Mrs. Church is at the Glendale Sanitarium for a short stay. She is accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Wilson, and her daughter, Margaret. She comes from the Ojai Valley where she conducts an exclusive school for girls. She is a graduate of the Emerson School of Expression of Boston, is well known in educational circles throughout the country and is a woman of dramatic and literary attainment.

Stephen C. Packer, Glendale's choice for Supervisor, is very busy perfecting his arrangements for the coming election. If any hard feelings were engendered during the recent campaign they should be forgotten, and if there were any factions they should unite and all join in a determined effort to make Mr. Packer the next supervisor of the 5th district.

G. H. Barager of the Broadway Furniture store made a trip to his ranch west of Burbank Monday and brought back with him a sample of the corn which he has on his ranch. The sample of corn is now on exhibition at Mr. Barager's store.

They also stopped off for a day in Salt Lake City. They spent a few days at Lake Tahoe, and spent a few days at Berkeley, where Mr. Moyse studied the relations between the University and the High school. Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Weaver, who preceded Principal Moyse and his family to Wisconsin, will return to their home, 822 Fifth street, about the end of September.

E. J. Miles, of 540 West Broadway, is remodeling his store room and will add a complete line of shoes as soon as the furniture is installed. Mr. Miles first started in business in a small shoe repair shop across the street from his present location and by persistent effort and push has established himself among his many patrons as a reliable, up-to-date business man and his strict attention to business bespeaks for him success.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Chappell, 1457 Myrtle street, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin, 1498 W. Third street, and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Van Dyke, 1430 W. Third street, formed a week-end party to the beach at Malibu and while some of the party explored the back canyons others enjoyed the deep sea fishing which is excellent at that point. The party caught rock cod and some Spanish mackerel. The children of the party enjoyed the usual seaside sports.

Mr. C. L. Fess, a prominent attorney of Lima, Ohio, and Dr. Parks, of Westminster, Ohio, who have been visiting the family of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ingledue, 725 West Third street, have returned to their Eastern homes. While in Glendale they were entertained on many interesting motor trips, to Riverside, the different beaches and other interesting places and were delighted with all they saw. Dr. Parks hopes to arrange his affairs so that he may return here to remain permanently.

SECRET OF ACHIEVEMENT

No one who has ever really achieved, attained, triumphed, ever said and believed in his heart that it can't be done. No winner, no conqueror ever was obsessed by the it-can't-be-done idea. While the other fellow was saying "it can't be done," he was doing it.

The highest mountains are scaled, the deepest depths are plumbed, even the Great Pyramid is forced to give up its secret.

The very sound of "it can't be done" in the ears of some one is going to start him on the way of proving that it can.

The so-called impossible, more than the possible, more even than the probable, sometimes, is the thing that is going to be accomplished.

It can be done.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

Miss Margaret Carter, who arrived in Casa Verdugo one year ago in company with the family of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Clarke of Viola avenue, returned last week to Thorold, Ontario, Canada, the former home of the Clarke's, near Niagara Falls, in accordance with a plan to bring back Mrs. Carter, mother of Mrs. Clarke and Miss Carter, to join the family in sunny California. Mrs. Clarke's health has been restored since her arrival and location in the foothill district, a year ago.

Mr. F. W. Denny and family of San Fernando have taken the bungalow at No. 1113 Viola avenue. Mr. Denny is an instructor of chemistry in the San Fernando High school, which is now housed in a group of five large new buildings and is a part of the Los Angeles city school system.

Harry Peterson of N. Central avenue brought in his third consecutive annual buck, which he bagged in the foothills, back of Burbank, last Saturday. His brother-in-law, Con Priest, brought it in by auto from the hunting grounds to the cooling room of Espesero de Verdugo. In response to numerous congratulations, they wore the smile of modesty usual to mighty nimrods.

JERUSALEM PUDDING

Cover one tablespoon of gelatine with a quarter cup of cold water and soak a half hour. Wash two tablespoons of rice, boil rapidly in salted water for twenty minutes, or until tender, then drain and spread out on to a plate to dry. Stone and chop fine twelve dates; whip one cup of cream and, when stiff, add the rice and dates, then a half cup of powdered sugar. Dissolve the gelatine over hot water, add it with a half teaspoon of vanilla to the cream, and stir the whole. Set in a pan of ice water until it begins to thicken and the rice does not settle to the bottom. Turn into a wet mold and put in a cold place until set. Serve very cold.

WORRY

Eliminate worry, and dyspepsia, so prevalent today, would, most of it, be automatically cured.

Worry is at the root of most nervous diseases, mental disorders.

In the great plan of life it is not possible to determine at the time of happening absolutely as to what constitutes good fortune or ill.

LIBRARY LOAN SLIDES

There is a library in Cincinnati which collects and makes stereopticon slides which it loans to patrons free of charge. After 14 years of activity, the institution has 20,000 slides in its files and also several stereopticon lanterns which, with the services of an operator, can be secured very cheaply. The conditions on which the slides are loaned is that the borrower be responsible for breakages and that they be returned within a reasonable time.

Just as most libraries will purchase books on subjects which its collection does not cover, so the Cincinnati institution will prepare slides on request. A short time ago, for example, a request was received for slides on English cottage interiors. The librarian gathered together from books and other sources an excellent collection of pictures on this topic and transferred them to glass for use in the lantern, says the Detroit Free Press. It often happens that people who have taken interesting trips wish to entertain their friends with illustrated talks on their journeys. In such cases the library will make up sets of slides which the traveler may borrow when he wishes, though they are the property of the library and subject to the claims of the first person asking for them.

The stereopticon department material is filed in large cases, having partitioned drawers, and all the views are card indexed. A patron wishing material for a lantern talk is given access to these collections, from which he makes his selection. From 25 to 90 views are chosen, though no limit is set to the number that may be borrowed. Nature clubs use the department a great deal in their studies out-of-doors; teachers use it for geography and history views, etc.

IN THE GIFT SHOPS

This is just "between times" for novelties, but the head buyer, before she goes off in search of her new goods, always has a few delightful novelties she can show you. In one gift shop, the visitor, as she saunters into the softly lighted room, is at once in tune with the beauty and harmony all about her. Nothing jars. In a far corner, on this particular day, sat a saucy little lap poodle on a mat, inviting the visitor to put him against a door. His little black mottled head was jauntily set on one side, and the white of his body against the gray of the mat made one want to cuddle him, even though he is only an iron dog and just big enough to stop a door from slamming. He would give character and welcome to any entrance, and put anyone in good humor, just to look at his smiling little face. His name is Fido and the very last word in door stops.

Some other delightful little articles in this shop, and, of course, in other shops as well, are the large work bags of brocaded satins and silks and cretonnes, about a foot deep, shaped like a lima bean. The opening is shirred over a pliable hoop; at the corners are bunches of French silk apples and cherries. The whole is finished with a cord handle.

The hot roll holders are especially novel. They are as large as a gentleman's large handkerchief; they are folded in large squares first, then again, so that the embroidered corners come together like a little flat basket. The kindergarten children would know just how to fold them. They are very dainty upon the table.

THE UNKIND WORD

Drop an unkind word or careless—in a minute it is gone,
But there's half a hundred ripples circlin' on, an' on, an' on,
That keep spreadin', spreadin' spreadin', from th' center as they go.
An' there ain't no way to stop 'em, once you've started 'em to flow.
Drop an unkind word or careless—
in a minute you forget,
But there's little waves a-flowin' an'
there's ripples circlin' yet,
An' perhaps in some sad heart a mighty wave of tears you've stirred,
An' disturbed a life once happy when you dropped an unkind word.

—James W. Foley.

HOW DO YOU DO?

"How can you, friend?" the Swedish say;
The Dutch, "How do you fare?"
"How do you have yourself today?"
Has quite a Polish air.

In Italy, "How do you stand?"
Will greet you every hour;
In Turkey when one takes your hand,
"Be under God's great power!"

"How do you carry you?" is heard
When Frenchmen so inquire;
While Egypt's friendly greeting word
Is "How do you perspire?"

"Thin may the shadow never grow,"
The Persian's wish is true;
His Arab cousin, bowing low,
Says, "Praise God! How are you?"

But oddest of them all is when
Two Chinese meet, for thrice
They shake their own two hands, and then
Ask, "Have you eaten rice?"

—Standard.

MATERIAL FOR WINDOW BLINDS MOST USEFUL

In packing my suit case, preparatory to going on my two weeks' holiday, which I was to spend in a little shack supposed to be furnished, my eyes fell on some green and green with a cream backing of blind material. This I had found very useful at home and I thought probably it might come in handy in this sparsely furnished shack; so into the suit case it went, and, strange to say, it was one of the first things utilized, says a reader of the C. S. Monitor.

Our centerpiece on the dining table looked anything but pleasing to the eye; so two pieces of the green material about 12 inches wide, one the length of the table, the other the length across, we crossed in the center and, with a bouquet of wild flowers, this was very effective. To save our linen, as laundry work was almost out of the question, we cut doylies out of the green with the cream backing, using a dinner plate for the circle and enlarging one for a center piece. These were thoughtfully left in the shack when we departed, as they would no doubt be appreciated by the next tenant.

This material, remnants in many colors of which may be procured for a small sum at almost any store where blinds are made up, will prove most convenient to have on hand. If the binding of a book needs strengthening, it is excellent. It makes very neat and artistic covers for pamphlets, and excellent scrap books for children. Very pretty book markers, all shapes and sizes, one being the pattern of a scroll, with a text printed on it and decorated with crayon around the edge, have been made from it. Boxes may be covered very effectively, imitating leather, and corners on blotters look very well. In fact, in every place where leather is used, this material can be utilized.

WONDERFUL MAP

One of the most interesting and important works of the Government is that of mapping the continental United States. When the map is completed, it will cover more than an acre of ground when all its sections are joined together. Over 2,500 such sections have already been published. They represent an accurate and detailed mapping of forty per cent of the area of the country.

Each of these sections is printed on a sheet about eighteen inches square, forming a little map complete in itself for the area included. Such a map has a hundred uses. It is accurate beyond anything in ordinary maps. It shows every road, house, stream and hill. It gives the distance from point to point exactly drawn to scale, so that you can estimate the distance in yards with precision. It shows the altitude of any point on its surface; if your town or county is included in the area map, you can learn the exact elevation of any point at a glance.

The work of mapping is going on at the rate of about 20,000 square miles yearly. Each topographic sheet costs the Government from $3,000 to $5,000 to prepare. The area represented by a single sheet varies, from the maps of thinly settled regions which are usually drawn on a smaller scale to those where the population is denser. The standard scale is one mile to the inch which makes are average land area represented by a single sheet about 200 miles.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Wednesday; cloudy along the coast; westerly winds.

For Sale—Rich, Red Blood!

HOW many of us would jump at such an offer! But—That's just the point—you can't buy it that way. It's something you can't get in the market place. It can't be introduced into the system from without—it must come from within.

Shorn of all technical phrasing—anemia means a deficiency in the quantity or quality of the blood. This gives rise to a host of functional disorders, the importance of which too often is exaggerated.

If you are anemic you must know that this condition cannot be overcome in a day or a week or a month. You must know that so-called tonics and blood-purifiers can't do it—Nature alone can help you providing you give it half a chance. You must know that it isn't a question of how much food you eat—but how much is assimilated. You must know that while the body can take care of a little surplus, it cannot make up a deficiency. Therefore—

Your cue is to begin at once a course of treatment designed to help Nature help itself. These pleasant, drugless treatments will quicken your circulation—increase your nerve energy—and tone up your digestive organs. Only in this way can the blood supply be permanently enriched.

Tomorrow is a splendid day to start!

Treatment Rooms open 9 A. M. to 9 P. M., except Saturday. Trained Nurses of both sexes in attendance. For rates and appointment telephone Glendale 2 or Home 1213

People Attract People

A Depot on the Southern Pacific located at Broadway and San Fernando Road would draw people from Pasadena, La Crescenta, and surrounding towns and would give Glendale the appearance of a busy city, which would make more business for this community.
